

United States Air Force Tradewinds Quintet

Wednesday, 24 March 2004, 1900
Community Activities Center, Building 718
FREE PERFORMANCE (No Advance Tickets Required)

The United States Air Force Tradewinds Quintet will span more than 250 years of musical tradition when they appear for a free performance.

The quintet's repertoire includes a wide variety of chamber works, as well as popular and patriotic pieces. Their versatility comes from their educational background and experience ranging from the Atlanta Symphony to attending some of the leading music schools in the country. Comprised of flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon, the quintet is part of the United States Air Force Heritage of America Band based at Langley Air Force Base, Virginia.
